What a masterpiece!

Pacquiao KOs Diaz, bags 4th world title

By Roy Luarca

LAS VEGAS—ONCE THE LEFT HOOK LANDED, Manny Pacquiao knew David Diaz was out.

True enough, referee Vic Drakulich didn't bother to count as Diaz fell to the canvas face first with 2:24 gone in the ninth round, handing Pacquiao the World Boxing Council lightweight crown on Saturday night (Sunday morning in Manila) and making him the first Asian to win major titles in four weights.

"What a masterpiece," President Macapagal-Arroyo said after watching the fight on television in San Francisco, California, while waiting for her flight to Manila, according to Press Secretary Jesus Dureza.

"Manny once again showed the sterling quality of excellence of a Filipino at his best. We rejoice with the whole nation in his victory," Ms Arroyo said in a statement at the end of her 10-day US visit.

The 29-year-old Pacquiao enshrined himself as the first Filipino to rule the 135-pound division.

Pacquiao threw 768 punches to Diaz's 463, also landing 20 percent more of his blows. Pacquiao also jabbed well with remarkable discipline for an instinctual brawler, but the 32-year-old Diaz was hurt most by Pacquiao's 180 power shots that connected.

Pacquiao's victory added to the evidence in his favor in the contentious argument over who is the best pound-for-pound fighter in the world. What is beyond dispute, however, is Pacquiao deserves to be mentioned in the same breath as Joe Calzaghe, Bernard Hopkins and Kelly Pavlik.

After starting his career 13 years ago as a flyweight, Pacquiao (47-3-2, 35 KOs) has evolved into a dominant fighter

Salvage team gets ready to remove toxic cargo

REMAINS OF THE DEAD A wallet containing cash, a picture of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, a tax certificate and an ID card washed ashore on Sibuyan Island tell the essential story of seaman Ernesto Samson, one of the hundreds presumed killed in the sinking of the MV Princess of the Stars.

By Tarra Quismundo

SAN FERNANDO, SIBUYAN ISLAND—Frogmen were poised to cut through the hull of the MV Princess of the Stars today to remove a deadly cargo of endosulfan pesticide and allow the retrieval of hundreds of bloated bodies entombed in the capsized ferry.

A 12-member team of British and Filipino salvage experts from Subsea Services Inc., a private firm hired by the ship's owner Sulpicio Lines, arrived yesterday afternoon on this island where the ferry lies upside down 2 kilometers from the shore.

The team carried aboard a Philippine Coast Guard (PCG) vessel close to two tons of equipment, including cutting rods, diving helmets, suits, umbilical cords for oxygen and communication.

Vice Adm. Wilfredo Tamayo, chief of the Philippine Coast Guard, told reporters that the experts would begin today cutting through the hull to get water samples and locate its endosulfan cargo whose discovery halted activity in the Sibuyan waters on Friday.

"We will survey the ship first using a CCTV handheld camera, and once we've done this, we will make small holes to get samples of the water," said the team's British superintendent, Chris Kenneson.

Food lack looms in Western Visayas

By Nikko Dizon

WESTERN VISAYAS IS LIKELY to face a "food shortage" in the coming days because of the damage wrought by Typhoon "Frank" to its agriculture and infrastructure, a Palace executive said yesterday.

"That's the extent of the damage," Assistant Secretary Raul Banias, presidential assistant for the Western Visayas, told reporters in Cabatuan, Iloilo.

Some 22,000 hectares of rice land, which would have produced about 86,000 metric tons of rice, were destroyed in the region.

"We would have harvested our rice grains next month, but there's nothing to harvest now," Banias said, adding that poultry, livestock and fisheries were "almost wiped out."

Sulpicio Lines should go into mortuary business

ANALYSIS

IT HAS BEEN NINE DAYS since the MV Princess of the Stars of Sulpicio Lines sank off Sibuyan Island with more than 800 passengers and crewmen on board. Only 57 survivors have been found, and the rest have been trapped inside the capsized floating coffin.

The sunken vessel is not only a navigational hazard in one of the busiest sea lanes in the Visayas, it is also holding a toxic cargo of pesticide that authorities fear might leak and cause environmental damage. This cargo has hampered the search for survivors, which was suspended after it was revealed that the ship carried the chemical.

The ship cannot be immediately refloated because Sulpicio Lines reportedly would not be able to claim full damages from insurers. According to maritime officials, the ship could easily be refloated but Sulpicio Lines and authorities who have oversight powers on maritime safety are "stalling."

This official said: "If they re-

Oil leaders try once more to slash soaring crude prices

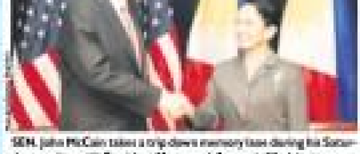

MADRID—A WEEK AFTER FAILING TO deflate record oil prices at a summit in Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest crude producers and consumers will get another chance to tackle the problem at a meeting this week.

More than 3,000 delegates, including leading corporate and political figures, are to meet here at the 19th World Petroleum Congress (WPC), which runs from Monday to Thursday after an official opening ceremony on Sunday.

"It's the Olympics of the oil and gas industry," WPC director Pierce Riemer told a press conference.

The gathering follows a surge in oil prices on Friday that took both New York light sweet crude and Brent North Sea crude to record levels near $143 a barrel as a drop in global equities markets sent investors into commodities.

Oil leaders try once more to slash crude prices

With oil over $140 a barrel, traders are now expecting to see crude prices at $145 and even $150, analysts say.

A senior Iranian oil official said he expected crude prices to rise to $150 a barrel in the near future with the onset of higher demand in summer, the semi-official Mehr news agency reported on Saturday.

"As we get near the final days of the current month and the arrival of the high-consumption summer season, the possibility of a hike in the price of oil increases," Hojatollah Ghanimifard told the news agency.

Iran, the world's fourth-largest oil exporter, has repeatedly said the market is well supplied and has blamed rising prices on speculation, a weak US dollar and geopolitical tension.

Oil has more than doubled in the past year not only due to the dollar's decline, but also because of rising global demand, particularly in fast-growing economies such as China and India. Supply outages in the Middle East and Nigeria as well as falling production in Mexico have also contributed to the price rise.

The sharp increase in oil prices has driven a similar rise in gas prices in developing countries, like the Philippines where fuel prices have risen 16 times since January and the pump price of gasoline has soared to more than P60 a liter.

Opec, ExxonMobil

At the Madrid summit, the presidents of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (Opec), the head of the International Energy Agency and ministers from Nigeria, Russia, Venezuela, India, France and the Netherlands are expected to be present.

The Opec officials and energy ministers are to be joined by the bosses of major international oil groups—ExxonMobil of the United States, CNOOC of China, British Petroleum and Shell of Britain, Rosneft of Russia and Total of France.

Saudi Arabia convened a hastily arranged meeting of consumers and producers in Jeddah last weekend to tackle the problem of record oil prices, which the Opec president predicted would reach between $150 and $170 in the coming months.

Most experts agreed that the only concrete result of the Jeddah meeting was Saudi Arabia's announcement that it would increase daily production by more than 200,000 barrels to 9.7 million—and that it could significantly step this up if necessary.

The gathering pitted producers against consumer nations, which are calling for an increase in production.

Most Opec members remain firmly opposed to any increase in their production. They blame speculators and the fall in the US dollar for the remarkable run-up in prices.

Finding solutions

Jorge Segrelles, the head of the WPC organizing committee, said the Madrid meeting was intended to be "a forum for actively finding solutions."

But given the differences in assessment of the situation between consumer and producer countries, the head of energy at the consultancy group Capgemini, Colette Lewiner, saw little chance of an agreement.

"There might be declarations of intent, but there will not be a consensus in the short term," Lewiner said.

The main event, which will take place in Madrid's Ifema conference center, also faces competition from a rival meeting that environmentalists have called to promote alternatives to crude oil as an energy source.

Weak dollar and stocks

The latest record oil prices came as the dollar fell against the euro in afternoon trading on Friday.

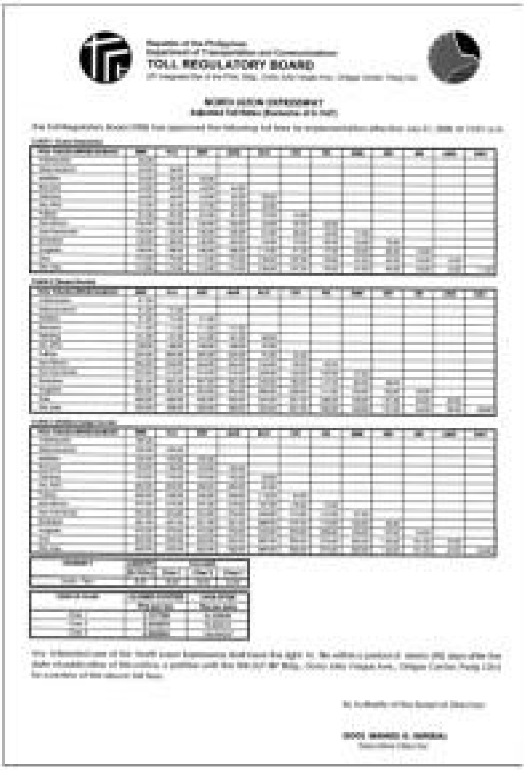

"The dollar was slightly stronger, and when it gave up its gains, that gave oil the green light," said James Cordier, president of Tampa, Florida-based trading firms Liberty Trading Group and OptionSellers.com.

The market now believes the US Federal Reserve is unlikely to raise interest rates in the near future. Because higher rates tend to strengthen the dollar, traders are anticipating that it will continue to fall and, consequently, that investors will keep turning to commodities, including oil, as a hedge against inflation.

"Oil's back in favor, especially with people bailing out of the stock market," said Jim Ritterbusch, president of energy consultancy Ritterbusch and Associates in Galena, Illinois.

The stock market's recent retreat is also sending investors in search of higher-yielding investments. On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average fell nearly 300 points. In afternoon trading on Friday, the main US stock index was down more than 190 points.

"When money has nowhere to go, it is parked in commodities as they are among the investment instruments that actually see the more money you pour into it," said Oliver Jakob, an analyst at Petromatrix GmbH, in Switzerland. Reports from AFP, AP and Reuters

Reporters pin hopes on CHR

AFTER LOSING their case in court, journalists who were arrested by police during the Nov. 29, 2007, Peninsula Manila hotel siege are banking on the Commission on Human Rights to rule in their favor.

CHR Chair Leila de Lima announced at a forum Friday that the National Press Club had filed against police officials following the alleged illegal arrest of the reporters would be up for resolution on Wednesday.

"We will prioritize the resolution of the case because it involves very serious constitutional issues relating to press freedom and the rights of media people," De Lima said.

Her pronouncement coincided with a Makati Regional Trial Court ruling junking the charges filed by the journalists and media organizations against the authorities over the arrests.

On Friday, Makati RTC Judge Reynaldo Laigo dismissed the class suit filed against Defense Secretary Gilberto Teodoro Jr., Justice Secretary Raul Gonzalez, Philippine National Police Director General Avelino Razon Jr. and National Capital Region Police Office Director Geary Barias, among others.

The judge ruled the defendants were able to justify the arrest of the reporters who snubbed the 3 p.m. deadline for them to leave the hotel.

De Lima has ordered the CHR's legal department to submit a draft of the report and its recommendations on the case during the en banc meeting on Wednesday. —Jocelyn R. Uy

Hanjin not liable for death, says DOLE

CITY OF SAN FERNANDO—THE DEPARTMENT of Labor and Employment has cleared the construction arm of the Hanjin Heavy Industries & Construction Philippines Inc. of liability in the death of a worker and injury to five others on June 20 in the company's shipyard in Zambales.

The Hanjin Construction Corp. Ltd. cannot be held liable for the death of Mario Amora and for the injury on his co-workers because the incident was a "matter of force majeure and not work-related," said Alvin Villamor, DOLE assistant regional director, in a telephone interview on Sunday.

"Force majeure" means an unexpected and disruptive event that may operate to excuse a party from a contract.

"Tenta Dry Dock 4, they ran to the iron forms to seek shelter from the rains. The wind was strong. The iron forms fell on them. If they had not gone there, they would not have been killed or hurt," Villamor said, relaying the findings of two inspections by a DOLE team there last week.

He said the dry dock was 100 to 200 meters from the iron forms. These are concrete walls for the dry docks.

Villamor said the iron forms were not used as scaffoldings.

The team, composed of regional director Nathaniel Lacambra and safety engineer Pedro Bernardo, conducted an investigation on June 22 or a day after it received reports on the incident. The team returned on Tuesday to make further verifications, Villamor said.

Asked if the team interviewed Amora's co-workers, Villamor said, "No," for inspection of the site where the incident happened was sufficient, he said.

Pyeong Jong Yu, HHIC-Philippines general manager, on Sunday confirmed that DOLE found no fault with the company for Amora's death.

Pyeong said Hanjin has formed a safety committee "composed of higher [company] officials in Korea" to "strictly monitor" the implementation of DOLE's recommendations.

"We have been holding many meetings and inspections by the SBMA (Subic Bay Metropolitan Authority) and DOLE. On the second week of July they will check compliance [with safety measures]. But right now we are more than 90 percent compliant," he said.

US slaps sanctions against 'illegitimate' Zimbabwe gov't

WASHINGTON—US PRESIDENT GEORGE W. Bush said Saturday he had directed that sanctions be drawn up against the "illegitimate" government of Zimbabwe after a run-off vote boycotted by the opposition.

He said the United States would also be pressing for "strong action" at the United Nations, including an arms embargo on Zimbabwe and travel ban on officials from Robert Mugabe's regime, following Friday's "sham election."

"Given the Mugabe regime's blatant disregard for the Zimbabwean people's democratic will and human rights, I am instructing the Secretaries of State and Treasury to develop sanctions against this illegitimate government of Zimbabwe and those who support it," Bush said in a statement.

"We will press for strong action by the United Nations, including an arms embargo on Zimbabwe and travel ban on regime officials. We will continue to work closely with the African Union, Southern African Development Community and other world leaders to resolve this crisis."

Mugabe, who has led Zimbabwe since independence from Britain in 1980, was the only candidate in Friday's run-off vote. Opposition leader Morgan Tsvangirai pulled out after a wave of deadly attacks on his supporters.

Tsvangirai had beaten Mugabe in the March first round, but fell short of the majority needed to secure a clear victory. Government sources said Mugabe is now expected to be inaugurated for a new term as president on Sunday.

Bush said the international community had condemned the regime's "ruthless campaign of politically motivated violence and intimidation" during the elections and made clear Friday's run-off "was in no way free and fair."

He said that "any legitimate government of Zimbabwe must represent the interests of all its citizens and the outcome of the March 29 elections," and said the United States stood ready to support such a government with aid.

"In the meantime, we will continue to support the people of Zimbabwe by providing food assistance to more than one million people and ARV treatment to more than 40,000 people."

The current US sanctions against Zimbabwe are targeted at regime officials, including Mugabe, and Bush directed officials Saturday to build on the current list of more than 170 people and entities. AFP

Pacquiao gets the job done

Boxing icon stunning in lightweight debut

By Roy Luarca

LAS VEGAS—MANNY PACQUIAO HAD SO many reasons to smile Saturday night (Sunday in Manila), he simply kept flashing satisfied grins everywhere.

And everybody could see the smile. Pacquiao's face was virtually unmarked after knocking out David Diaz with 2:24 gone in the ninth round to claim the WBC lightweight crown.

Pacquiao was ecstatic foremost because he succeeded in making history as the first Asian to hold four world titles in four weight classes as well as the first Filipino to rule the 135-pound division.

And then there were the little things that made his day.

Like having the 50th world champion Boston Celtics as dugout guests, chanting "Manny, Manny!" after Pacquiao's methodical punishment of Diaz. And having his picture taken with Kevin Garnett.

"A dream come true," Pacquiao told a television reporter giddily.

"I'm his fan. I like his hope," said Kevin Garnett, ringleader of the Celtics' Big Three of Ray Allen and Finals MVP Paul Pierce. Also in the dugout with the Celtics, who beat the LA Lakers in six games for the NBA title a couple of weeks ago, were Rajon Rondo and Sam Cassell.

"I'm so lucky with this fantastic victory," said Pacquiao. "And I'm glad the Celtics were able to watch the fight."

The main source of Pacquiao's joy Saturday night was his true

Buenavista, Fetalvero rule Olympic run

THE COUNTRY'S KING AND QUEEN OF THE road—Eduardo Buenavista and Mercedita Manipol Fetalvero—reasserted their supremacy yesterday's Olympic Day Run at the San Miguel by the Bay, SM Mall of Asia, Pasay City.

The diminutive Buenavista grabbed the lead early and methodically padded his advantage en route to clinching the top plum and P5,000 with a twenty-seven minute and 08 second clocking.

Likewise, Fetalvero, whose multititles can hold a candle to Buenavista's, fashioned out a wire-to-wire showing and clocked in at 32:29.

Philippine Olympic Committee president Jose Cojuangco, Jr. fired off the runners and Inter-national Olympic Committee member Francisco Elizalde read the message of IOC president Jacques Rogge in the 114th founding anniversary celebration of the Olympic Movement covered by Solar Sports and Dzrh Sports Radio.

SMC Packaging IPO to push through in '09

By Elizabeth [illegible]

SAN MIGUEL CORP. IS PUSHING AHEAD with plans to have an initial public offering for its packaging business next year.

San Miguel vice chair and president Ramon Ang said he remained optimistic about an IPO next year despite the current weakness in the market since their packaging business offers good value to prospective shareholders and is supported by the San Miguel brand.

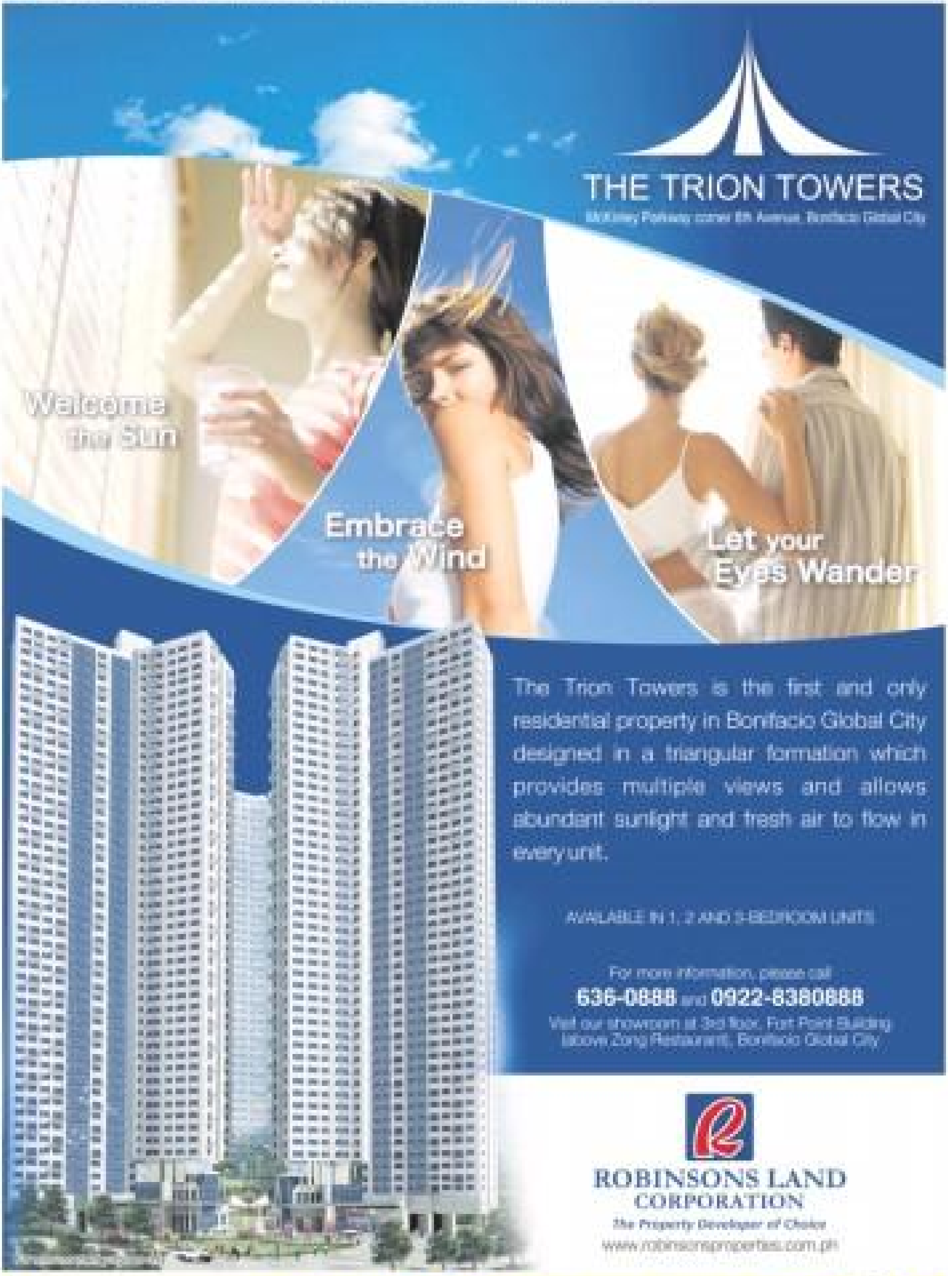

"SMC is a good name," Ang said.

Ang earlier said San Miguel might sell 20 percent of its packaging business to the public.

"This is raising more capital to pay down debt and raise money to go into profitable businesses," he said.

In the first quarter, San Miguel Packaging Group's financial performance improved significantly with revenue growing 8 percent to P4.96 billion. This reflected the recovery in demand for glass in the food, healthcare and pharmaceutical industries. Operating income of P347 million was a record increase from last year's [illegible] million.

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

We have lost our good ship, MV Princess of the Stars, the crown jewel in our fleet, and some of our best crew. But more than these, we have lost valued passengers without whose patronage the company would not have been where it is today. Even as we grieve and continue to mourn the loss of priceless human lives, we must now match that grief with decisive action to directly address the plight of the victims and their loved ones to ease their suffering.

Mindful, likewise, of the deep concern shown by our president, Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, for the victims and their families and her desire that their plight be alleviated by concrete actions, Sulpicio Lines, Inc. has decided to cast aside legal technicalities and waive the waiting period of one year within which missing passengers will be compensated. Instead, the legal heirs of ALL VICTIMS LISTED IN THE PASSENGER MANIFEST will be paid the amount of Two Hundred Thousand Pesos regardless of whether the bodies have been recovered or are still missing, and regardless of whether the bodies have been identified or not up to this time.

We therefore invite the next of kin or legal heirs of every passenger-victim (casualties) listed in the PASSENGER MANIFEST to fill up A CLAIM FORM which can be obtained from our Manila office at Pier 12, North Harbor, Manila or from our Cebu office at Reclamation Area, Cebu City, and submit this to either office, together with the following supporting documents (original copy):

— Birth Certificate and Marriage Contract of victims;
— Birth Certificate and Marriage Contract of claimant/s;
— Valid cedula and government ID of the claimant/s;
— Voter's ID of the victim and claimant/s (if available or deemed necessary);
— Affidavit of relationship of the claimant/s to the victim;
— Death Certificate (if available).

There is no need to hire the services of a lawyer because the claims will be acted upon with dispatch and with as simple documentation as possible.

The PASSENGER MANIFEST is posted in conspicuous places at the office of Sulpicio Lines, Inc. in Manila and Cebu.

Human life is so precious that no money value can be attached to it.

But this is the least that we can do to show how deeply we commiserate with the victims of this unfortunate event, a tragedy that nobody wanted to happen, least of all Sulpicio Lines.

We would like to thank the NGOs, the PNRC, DSWD, DSWS, NDCC, NBI, DOTC and Marina, LGUs most especially the Cebu City Government, PN divers, PN, PNP and AFP, US Navy, Philippine Coast Guard auxiliary and most especially the Philippine Coast Guard for their invaluable assistance.

This announcement shall not be construed as an admission of liability on the part of Sulpicio Lines, Inc.

May Almighty God bless us all.

Sincerely,

SULPICIO LINES, INC.

Christian Bautista, Joanna Ampil lead 'West Side Story'

CHRISTIAN Bautista and Karylle play Tony and Maria. Inset, West End's Joanna Ampil

"WEST SIDE STORY," Stages' major musical offering in 2008, is all set to go on stage with a strong cast headlined by Christian Bautista, Karylle and West End's Joanna Ampil; a live orchestra with Gerard Salonga as musical director; and a first-rate artistic team with Audie Gemora as executive producer and Menchu Lauchengco-Yulo as director.

Rigid auditions that took two months yielded a mix of aspirants coming not only from the Philippines but also from other countries like Singapore, Australia, the United States and the United Kingdom.

Balladeer Christian Bautista will play the role of Tony. He is tall, handsome and has the makings of a perfect romantic leading man.

Singer and actress Karylle could match Natalie Wood's film version of Maria. She is young and beautiful. She sings her songs with utmost conviction.

Meanwhile, the Philippines will get the rare chance to watch Joanna Ampil in her first musical theater assignment in Manila after 16 years of playing lead roles in London. Joanna has agreed to share the role of Maria with Karylle because she has long wanted to perform for her countrymen who cannot easily afford to go to London to watch her in a musical. Local audiences have to see why Joanna is a favorite of British producer Cameron Mackintosh. Joanna, at one time, was even handpicked by Sir Andrew Lloyd Webber to play Mary Magdalene in "Jesus Christ Superstar."

Gian Magdangal as Riff returns to theater after a three-year hiatus. He is seen in the reality show, "Philippine Idol," on ABC 5, and "SOP Rules" on GMA 7.

Another world-class import, Filipino-Australian Rowena Ulau who played Kim, Gigi, and Ellen in the recent Australian tour of "Miss Saigon," joins the cast of "West Side Story." Highly recommended by Leo Valdez, who played The Engineer in "Miss Saigon," Rowena will be flying in to share the role of the feisty Anita with local theater and pop artist [illegible].

Jazz choreographer [illegible] is tasked to reconstruct Jerome Robbins' original choreography in the Broadway production.

It is interesting to note that musical director Gerard Salonga has been longing to do "West Side Story." Lea Salonga's husband, Rob Chien, who now manages the Filharmonika orchestra under Ambient Media, went the extra mile to make it possible for them to play for the production.

Manila's theater-going public has been looking forward to the restaging of the classic Bernstein-Sondheim Broadway musical, including a growing number of fundraising groups and block buyers.

"We initially opened up 16 shows to fundraising groups and block buyers. We ended up opening four more shows to accommodate the demand coming from these groups, which is increasingly a pretty good mix of both Filipino and foreign investors, including a Swiss block buyer," said Gemora.

"West Side Story" was first staged in Manila in 1982 with Audie as Riff and Menchu as Maria. This Manila restaging will precede a Broadway revival in 2009.

"West Side Story" is one of the best musicals of all time with music by Leonard Bernstein and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim. It is a beautiful dramatic dance musical with many show-stopping numbers and memorable songs such as "Somewhere," "Tonight," "One Hand One Heart," "America" and "Something's Coming."

Stages' production of "West Side Story" is its third major musical production after "Footloose" in 2005, and "High School Musical On Stage" in 2007. "West Side Story" will run September-October at Meralco Theater.

Tickets are now sold at Ticketworld (8919999) and www.ticketworld.com.ph. Call Stages at 8101111 loc. 325. Ticket prices range from [illegible].

Stages' production of "West Side Story" is presented through special arrangement with Music Theatre International in New York.

Hairloss is wrecking her life and she doesn't know why.

Thinning hair makes a woman look older. When your hair's health, shine and bounce weaken, it seems your personality is likewise affected. Self-consciousness, diminished self-esteem, even bouts of depression may occur.

Most women who have gone through this harrowing experience say they tried everything to stop hairloss, from special treatments at the salon, to a whole range of over-the-counter products. But nothing worked. Sadly, many "remedies" may have actually made the condition worse. Until they found out the reason why they were losing hair, little could be done to end the problem.

Possible reasons for hairloss.

Women's hairloss can be caused by hormonal changes. Female Pattern Baldness (or Androgenetic Alopecia) is a reaction to male hormones in the body (androgens) which can weaken a woman's hair. Other factors can be stress, poor nutrition, illnesses and reaction to certain medications, childbirth and menopause. Frequent coloring, curling, straightening, and many more. Most causes of hairloss, when they are correctly identified, can be treated with good results.

Getting the facts on why you are losing hair.

Trichology is the study of the functions and problems of hair. A trichologist is someone who has been educated in the subject and is qualified to determine the reasons why your hair is not in good health.

Where do you find a trichologist? One name that has been synonymous with Professional Trichology in the Philippines for more than 25 years: Svenson. Svenson trichologists will examine your hair and scalp and give you advice on what to do.

A trichologist - what does it cost?

Nothing. Svenson trichologists offer an in-depth Hair & Scalp analysis totally free of charge.

Pre-hairloss symptoms.

Before your hair starts falling out, be aware of early warning signs such as persistent dandruff, flaking, and scalp irritations. Beat hairloss - see a trichologist when you see these signs!

These visible indications are embarrassing, and when combined with dirt in the atmosphere, shampoo chemicals or excess oiliness, they can block follicles, badly affecting hair growth.

Treatments to help your hair.

Depending on the findings of your Hair & Scalp analysis, you can decide on treatment programs including:

ULTRA HAIR REVITALIZER - deep-cleans scalp, creates healthier environment for growth. Hair becomes thicker, denser, more lush.

ULTRA-LUXE VOLUMIZER - quickly controls and stops hair fall, helps restore original lushness, volume and softness.

SCALP CORRECTIVE - eliminates dandruff, flaking and other irritations, returns scalp to normal state, prevents imminent hairloss.

Make an appointment today to see a trichologist free of charge. Call Svenson at (632) 4247/ 234-0851 (Cebu).

ARTIST and printmaker Ofelia Gelvezon Tequi, BFA '64 & AB '66, who flew all the way from Paris to attend the UP centennial homecoming, finds warm welcome in the arms of "Iskol," employ replica of the Guillermo Tolentino-designed Oblation that UP president Emerlinda Roman (center) and UPAA president Teri Tiongco hand to her.

UP@100

Journey of a thousand miles

By Lynett Adviento-Villaflor

TO MANY of the distinguished alumni awardees, UP's 100th anniversary is a journey of a thousand miles.

From the far corners of the world, they came home for the once-in-a-hundred-year event into the welcoming arms of their Guillermo Tolentino oblation trophy.

"One hundred years doesn't happen everyday," remarked Paris-based Ofelia Gelvezon Tequi, one of four awardees for Culture and Arts.

Besides having committed to be present at the Distinguished Alumni Awards rites, artist-printmaker Tequi had also wanted to fly a thousand miles from Paris and stay a week "to relive the fun, energy and joys of UP days to the present times."

Other awardees would echo Tequi's sentiment that the time and expense were worth "being recognized for my works by my Alma Mater who demands the best from us."

In his acceptance speech, [illegible] Chief Justice Reynato Puno would exhort his fellow alumni to bring their involvement in the nation's [illegible] to a high level as he delivered his most quotable quote, "In critical issues, the UP alumnus has no right to be wrong."

The UP alumni would be comfortable laughing in a room with fellow alumni, just as Sen. Benigno Aquino did with then President Ferdinand Marcos. The phrase, "Iskolar ng bayan," [illegible] have been the [illegible]. In the case of Marcos and Aquino, not only were they products of the same university, they were also fraternity brothers in the Upsilon Sigma Phi.

And so were Salvador Laurel, Jokot Arroyo, Christian Monsod and Francis Pangilinan, not to mention two prime movers of the underground NPA (New People's Army), Meliton Ocampo and [illegible].

The university has produced achievers from opposite ends of the political spectrum, particularly in the decades of the '70s. To name a few, Jose Diokno, Lorenzo Tañada, Juan Ponce Enrile, Fabian Ver, and Rodolfo Aguinaldo.

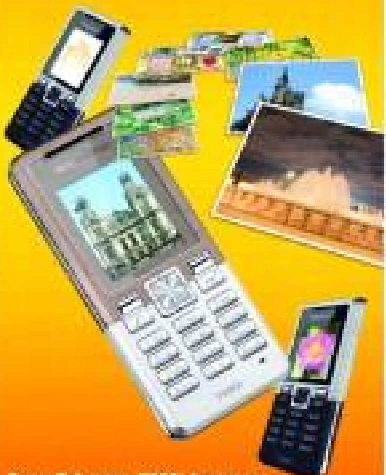

Self-confidence

"Lakas ng loob," as Tequi would put it. "So that when I went abroad (first for a diploma in painting from the Accademia di Belle Arti di Roma, Italy and then for special studies at the Pratt Institute of New York, USA), I had enough self-confidence (and) title, connection or wealth didn't impress me."
